

A favorite part of any visit to the area includes dining at the many fine restaurants found along The Outer Banks. The Atlantic Ocean and sound waters surrounding The Outer Banks provides a bounty of fresh, local seafood. Restaurants offer a wide range of delectable choices of fish and shellfish, including tuna, mahi-mahi, wahoo, grouper, flounder, crab, shrimp, oysters, clams... and more!

Fresh seafood prevails, but meat and potato lovers find plenty of delicious fare here, too. Tender beef is offered and chicken is prepared in many creative ways.

Of course, you'll want to try one of the many Outer Banks favorites. Start your day with a big Southern-style breakfast, complete with grits. You may want to try the famous North Carolina-style barbecue. Belly-up to the bar... the raw and steam bar that is, for a plateful of half-shell delights. Enjoy a meal of crab cakes with hushpuppies on the side. The list goes on.

Many restaurants have nightly specials, and offer reduced prices for groups. It's never difficult to stay within your budget and still treat yourself to an outstanding meal.
